

How your business can help

The underlying purpose of our Capital Appeal is to provide ideal facilities and the right environment to enable Guildford YMCA's team to give the best possible support for homeless and unemployed young people.

The end result will be that our skilled and experienced youth support workers can help to optimise the growth potential of these young people so that they are prepared for the disciplines of the workplace.

The other side of the equation is to identify business leaders who are willing to work alongside us, interacting with such young people and encouraging them into a successful transition into work. This needs time, patience and commitment – but most of all a shared belief that we all grow every time we see a changed life.

For businesses this is more than 'social responsibility'. It means that you have a 'hands on' role in transforming a fragile and damaged young life into a motivated adult who can thrive in today's tough world.

Chris Dudgeon of OTM Consulting (based in Guildford) says, "OTM Consulting has realised tremendous benefits from partnering with the YMCA. Not only is it exciting to see lives transformed, but we have gained new skills, and our staff are motivated by being part of something bigger and more profound than the confines of our own business. We are exploring ways to build on this relationship with the YMCA, and we wholeheartedly encourage other businesses to support this appeal."
