

Connection to the internet at the Y

Currently residents can access the internet in three ways:-

1. Our newly refurbished single en suite rooms are equipped with an internet connection via an Ethernet port. This connection can be accessed using and Ethernet cable (CAT5) which can be purchased from our reception. Alternatively, guests are welcome to bring their own. This connection is limited and Guildford YMCA cannot guarantee either the signal or speed. Unfortunately our standard single rooms are not equipped with an internet connection but other options are available in our reception area.
2. Two computers are available in reception, kindly donated by Connexions Surrey. These are available to all residents, free of charge. They only offer broadband internet access and can NOT be used to store, download or print. Whilst software is installed to restrict access to inappropriate sites, this is not fool proof. Anyone who deliberately visits illegal, pornographic, racist or sexist material will be forbidden access to the computers. Inadvertent access of an inappropriate site should be ceased immediately, and reception notified.

3. A broadband wireless internet signal is available on the ground floor and can normally be accessed within the lounge and restaurant areas. This service is called 'SURFHHERE'. Residents are responsible for setting up their connection to their own computer. The wireless network is open for all users and therefore Guildford YMCA does not accept any responsibility for any problems encountered on your system through the connectivity to the network, including, but not limited to virus infections, access to any unsecured shared folders or unprotected remote connections on our PC.

These facilities are offered without charge and as such, do not constitute part of any agreement with Guildford YMCA. Should they become unavailable for any reason it will not justify a reduction in normal accommodation charges.
